

Shocking find

THE STAR 19/08/2010 PAGE 1

Foetus and baby found as dumping cases rise

MALACCA: The outrageous acts of dumping new-born babies and foetuses continue with new cases reported here and in Terengganu.

A police forensic team from Malacca had to rummage through a dumpsite to find the remains of a foetus after a student had disposed it.

In Terengganu, a policeman found a new-born baby boy alive outside the gate of his home in Seberang Takir.

Other developments:
> So far this year, 66 babies, including 25 girls and 15 foetuses, were dumped.

> Retired Court of Appeal judge Datuk Mahadev Shankar comments on the reaction to the Government's proposal to classify baby dumping, that leads to the death of babies, as a crime that warrants the death sentence.

Grim task: Police searching for the remains of the foetus at the Malacca Hospital dumpsite yesterday. Right: A police officer taking the foetus found at the dumpsite to the hospital's mortuary. — A. MALEX YAHAYA / The Star

> SEE REPORTS ON PAGE 4