

CRASH OF MH17

The faces of MH17

NST 20/7/14 MS 7

Azrina Yakob, 41, a stewardess on MH17, was married with two children, aged 3 and 6. Her mother, Habibah Ismail, 65, from Kampung Kelumpang, Alor Mengkudu, Alor Star, said Azrina, her second of four children, contacted her last week. "At the beginning of the fasting month, she did not come home. But, she said she intended to come back for Hari Raya."

Karlijn Keijzer, 25, from Amsterdam, was a passionate person and natural leader. She was a champion rower and a member of the rowing team of Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana, United States.

Briton Glenn Thomas, 49, was a former journalist and World Health Organisation media relations coordinator. He was travelling to the 20th International AIDS Conference.

Joep Lange, 60, a Dutch clinical virologist at the University of Amsterdam, worked to deliver HIV drugs to the world's poorest countries since the early 1990s. Between 2002 and 2004, he served as International AIDS Society president. He was on his way to attend the 20th International AIDS Conference in Melbourne.

Briton Cameron Dalziel, 42, was a helicopter pilot who lived in South Africa and was known to be a helpful person. His brother, Campbell Dalziel, said: "From an early age, he believed in helping people and encouraging people; from being a lifeguard to flying helicopters."

Australian teacher Francesca Davison, 54, and her husband, Liam Davison, 56, were returning home from a holiday in Europe. She taught Literature and Humanities at Toorak College in Victoria.

Ninik Yuriani, 56, an Indonesian who lived in Eindhoven, the Netherlands, was on her way home to celebrate Hari Raya. Ninik, who would usually return to Indonesia three times a year, was returning to her hometown in central Java. She was planning to celebrate the end of Ramadan with her extended family, including her 86-year-old mother.

Quinn Lucas Schansman was a student at International Business School Hogeschool van Amsterdam. He had a dual United States/ Netherlands citizenship. The 19-year-old avid rugby player was heading for a holiday in Indonesia.

Indonesian Yuli Hastini, her Dutch husband, John Paulisen, and their two children, Arjuna Paulisen, 5, and Sri Paulisen, 3, were on their way to Yuli's hometown in Solo, central Java, for Hari Raya Aidilfitri.

Britons John Alder, 63, (left) and Liam Sweeney, 28, were both passionate supporters of Newcastle United Football Club, loyally following the club all their lives. Both were en route to New Zealand to support their favourite team on its pre-season tour. Newcastle United manager Alan Pardew said: "The players and I are deeply shocked and saddened by this terrible news. We all knew how passionately John and Liam supported the team and the club."

Taylor's University student Muhammad Afif bin Tambi, 19, had just completed his foundation studies in Natural and Built Environments. He had enrolled to study for a bachelor's degree in Architecture in August. The university said in a statement: "We would like to offer our heartfelt condolences to the family of Afif during this difficult time, and our thoughts and prayers go out to all passengers on board flight MH17."

Australian Nick Norris, 68, was travelling with his grandchildren, Mo Maslin, 12, Evie Maslin, 10, and Otis Maslin, 8. The former army officer, who also owned a consulting firm, was taking the three children to their parents in Australia.

Indonesian Jane Adi Soetjipto had visited her family in the Netherlands. Born in Semarang, Indonesia, in 1940, Jane would make annual visits to the Netherlands to see her mother and siblings, who lived there.

